

Treasury Department,

BUREAU OF THE MINT.

Washington, D. C.

January 10th., 1882 .

Sir:

I have received your letter of the 7th. inst. informing me that your records do not show that any Instructions were given by the Secretary of the Treasury prior to the Act of 1873 regarding the distribution of minor coins, except in the form of circulars for distribution to parties inquiring how to procure them, of which no copies can be found.

I was aware of the circulars to which you refer issued, during the last year, from the Secretary's Office, but I asked only for Instructions issued prior to the passage of the Coinage Act, for the reason that, prior to that date, the delivery was under the direction of the Secretary; but that Act placed the distribution of minor coins exclusively under the direction of the Director of the Mint. In the exercise of the discretion vested in him by law, Director Linderman issued the circular of April 16th., 1873, which, of course, is in force, unless it has been subsequently annulled or modified by the Director.

You say in your letter of the 7th. inst., "and acting under the authority contained in your letter of the 6th. the transportation on the minor coin will be paid, as heretofore, by the Mint." My letter of the 6th. inst. was not intended and does not contain any authority or direction in regard to the free transportation of minor coins, and I have made no order on the subject. Whatever authority, if any exists, for the payment by the Mint of cost of transportation will be found in the circulars or orders of my predecessor.

(2)

Respectfully,

Horatio B. Branch

Director.

A. Loudon Snowden, Esq.,

Supt. Mint of the U.S.,

Philadelphia, Pa.

43

Dr. M.
Wash D.C.

January 10/82

H. C. Buchart

Called only for copies of Circulars, about transportation of minor
comps prior to 1873.

Whatever authority
(if any) there is for this transportation must be found in the instruction of his predecessors.

Recd. Jan. 11th 1882.

[Abstract:] Called only for copies of circulars... 43

Treasury Department,
Bureau of the Mint,
Washington, D.C.,
January 10, 1882

Sir:

I have received your letter of the 7th inst. informing me that your records do not show that any Instructions were given by the Secretary of the Treasury prior to the Act of 1873 regarding the distribution of minor coins, except in the form of circulars for distribution to parties inquiring how to procure them, of which no copies can be found.

I was aware of the circulars to which you refer issued, during the last year, from the Secretary's Office, but I asked only for Instructions issued prior to the passage of the Coinage Act, for the reason that, prior to that date, the delivery was under the director of the Secretary; but that Act placed the distribution of minor coins exclusively under the direction of the Director of the Mint. In the exercise of the discretion vested in him by law, Director Linderman issued the circular of April 16th, 1873, which, of course, is in force, unless it has been subsequently annulled or modified by the Director.

You say in your letter of the 7th inst., "and acting under the authority contained in your letter of the 6th the transportation on the minor coin will be paid, as heretofore, by the Mint." My letter of the 6th inst. was not intended and does not contain any authority or direction in regard to the free transportation of minor coins, and I have made no order on the subject. Whatever authority, if any exists, for the payment by the Mint of the cost of transportation will be found in the circulars or orders of my predecessor.

Respectfully,
Horatio C. Burchard
Director.

A. Loudon Snowden, Esq.,
Supt. Mint of the U.S.,
Philadelphia, Pa.